SCOUTS, RESCUED FROM MOUNTAIN LEDGE, THRILLED

Hauled To Safety At The End Of 225-Foot Rope Last Eve

Plattsburgh, N. Y., Aug. 31—(AP)—Three Boy Scouts who clung for their lives to a tiny ledge 400 feet up on the rocky side of Wallface Mountain told today how they were saved from death after two days of privation and peril.

The Scouts—Robert, Glenn, Tyler Grey and William La Due—were nearing exhaustion and a probable fatal plunge down the perpendicular cliff into a gorge when rescuers, in a thrilling feat of mountaineering, hauled them to safety at the end of a 225-foot rope late yesterday.

Lifted to a higher ledge, they were brought down along a wild Adirondack trail. Today they were recovering at their Plattsburgh home from the effects of hunger and exposure to freezing winds.

The youths, who were trapped on the sharply sloping ledge when a piece of rock broke off behind them early Tuesday, suffered only slight cuts when they were hoisted up the mountain side.

Disclaim Any Fright
"We were never frightened a moment during the two days we were prisoners on the narrow ledge," said William La Due.

"From the time we saw the plane come sailing down over the mountain late Tuesday afternoon, we knew we would be taken down and we just waited. The pilot came so close to us we could almost talk to him. Later we could see some of the rescue party climbing just before dark."

The pilot to which La Due referred was Fred McLane of Lake Placid, who flew over the remote spot searching for the boys after Robert La Due, young brother of William, had raced back to the ledge for aid.

"We were trapped when the rock which we used for a step broke off," La Due said. "We knew then that we could not get off the ledge without help. It was a ledge about two feet wide and sloping downward at an angle of about 45 degrees. He had a hard time staying on it."

Tied Selves To Bush
During the night, he said, Glenn and Grey tied themselves to a bush so they would not slide off. They slept about an hour, but La Due did not sleep at all. In the freezing wind the three clung together, taking turns at standing in the middle. They were clad only in light hiking clothes.

"It was a thrilling experience," La Due said, "when we saw the ropes hanging down with the package of food for us, but that was nothing as compared to the thrill when I was actually swung out into space on the end of the 200 foot rope. I was the first to leave the ledge, then Lyle, Robert was last. They were hauled up to a ledge directly above the one on which they were trapped. From the higher position there was a difficult but not impossible trail down which the youths climbed with the aid of their rescuers."

Reynolds Deputy Escaped Burns In Automobile Fire

Stoddard Danekas, prominent Reynolds township farmer, and a deputy sheriff experienced a narrow escape from being terribly burned while driving south from Rochelle toward his home Wednesday morning, when about one mile south of Rochelle on state highway Route 70, flames suddenly swept beneath the floor boards of his sedan, into the car. He had present of mind to stop the car after driving it off the paving and jumped before he was caught in the flames, which badly damaged the machine, necessitating its being hauled to a Rochelle garage after the fire had been extinguished. Defective wiring and gas line leaking from the carburetor are believed to have started the fire.

Fatal Rioting In Hosiery Strike In Philadelphia Area

Philadelphia, Aug. 31—(AP)—Two men were shot and killed and at least eighteen persons were injured today as 200 police battled many times their number of strikers and sympathizers outside the Cambria hosiery mills, northeastern Philadelphia.

The dead men were Clem Norwood and Frank Milnor, strike pickets. The shooting occurred after the overturning of a truck which was bringing non-strikers to work.

Police estimated the crowd to number 2,800, while other sources placed the total much higher.

Police did not know who did the shooting. An officer who was riding in the cab of the truck said that he fired two shots into the ground and two into the air, but that the death-dealing bullets were fired later. Witnesses said that the later shots came from the truck after it rolled over.

Five Prisoners Escape Lee County Jail

Deer's Natural Distrust Of Man Prevents Rescue

Watkins Glen, N. Y., Aug. 31—(AP)—A Mohawk Indian's knowledge of wild animal nature met today with the same failure the white man has had in attempting to rescue a seven-point buck deer which has been trapped for six days on a rocky ledge in the gorge of Watkins Glen State Park.

Lowered cautiously by a rope from the top of the 200 foot precipice to the ledge 50 feet below, Chief So-Lat-Downee, in full tribal dress, failed to come within lassoing distance of the frightened animal, whose alarm was intensified by a newsreel photographer who followed the Indian down the cliff.

Park officials called a temporary halt and ordered both men off the ledge.

Disclaim Any Fright
"We were never frightened a moment during the two days we were prisoners on the narrow ledge," said William La Due.

DELIVERY WAS DISCOVERED BY AN EARLY RISER

Three Of Fugitives Have Had Previous Jail Records

The walls of Lee county's jail last night gave way before the borings of desperate prisoners who had worked in relays since Tuesday to effect their freedom and this morning five of the worst prisoners in the jail were at liberty, having crawled through a hole in the south wall from which rock and plaster had been pried away with pieces of steel torn from beds in the cells. The jail delivery was discovered at 6:20 this morning by J. A. Dautler who resides at 313 Hennepin avenue, directly across the street from the rear of the county property.

Mr. Dautler and family were starting to drive to Chicago and as he drove out of his yard, he chanced to notice the gaping hole in the south wall of the jail. He immediately suspected a jail delivery and notified Mrs. Esther Schwank, the jailer, who in turn summoned Sheriff Fred Richardson.

A checkup of the prisoners in the county jail revealed the escape of five men, three of whom were classified as ex-convicts. Those who went out through the hole during the night were as follows:

Five Fugitives
E. J. McCabe, Chicago, burglary and larceny—ex-convict.

Jack Workman, residence unknown, charge of rape.

Lloyd Johnson, Princeton, selling mortgaged property—ex-convict.

Gilbert Thorpe, Moline, larceny, former jail record.

Kenneth Carlson, Davenport, Ia., larceny.

A general description of the missing prisoners was telephoned to state police, Chicago detective bureau, Moline and Davenport police and to police departments of many morning.

Other northern Illinois cities this morning. An ordinary sink at the south end of the corridor had been torn down, the pipe frame work which supported it being dismantled and with this pipe and pieces of metal which had been removed from cots in the cells, the five evidently had been working almost steadily since Tuesday to dig through the two-foot stone wall. The steel lining which had been pried away in numerous former attempts to break jail and which in the last six weeks had been repaired, was again removed.

Others Threatened
Prisoners remaining in the jail, five in number, came out of their cells this morning to discover the jagged opening in the floor of the corridor. On the outside wall the hole was some distance above the ground. It was reported to Sheriff Richardson that threats of having

Local Boys Show Stock Projects At Exhibit At Oregon

Thirty-five boys from the agricultural department of the Dixon high school are exhibiting the livestock produced in their project work at the annual Vocational Agriculture show at the Ogle county fair grounds at Oregon today and tomorrow. Livestock includes dairy cattle, baby beef, swine and sheep entered by boys from 19 high schools of northwestern Illinois. Stock will be judged today and tomorrow by C. E. Gates of LaSalle and Raymond Nelson of DeKalb. Boys will compete for $1,200 in prize money appropriated annually by the state of Illinois to encourage production of quality live stock. The fair at Oregon is free to the public and all persons interested are urged to see these splendid exhibits. Features of the fair will be a class of 50 head of Hereford fat steers; 1400 head of swine of all breeds; a ball game Friday between the champion boys team of this section and the vocational agriculture instructors.

Man Who Tipped Off Impending Bank Robbery And Later Drove Bandit's Car And Deserted Held

Taylorville, Ill., Aug. 31—(AP)—A coroner's jury was told today that Thomas Westbrook, 35, Stonington, warned the officers of the First National Bank of Mt. Auburn less than an hour before an attempt was made to rob it yesterday. Westbrook was arrested late yesterday afternoon. Attilio Castello, 26, Taylorville, was killed and George Jackson, 19, Chicago, was captured by a posse after they fled from the bank. The inquest ended in a verdict that Castello was killed by gunshot wounds while attempting to rob the bank. Testimony was given that Jackson fired at the posse, but that Castello did not.

Frank Mulberry, president of the bank, testified that Westbrook came to the bank about 11 A. M. and said that the robbers would arrive in fifteen minutes. It was nearly an hour later that the bandits appeared and were frightened away by the burglar alarm.

Westbrook, who had been arrested on other charges recently, was taken into custody as the driver of the automobile that brought Castello and Jackson to the bank. When they left the bank, the automobile had disappeared.

AIR VIEW OF TRAIN WRECK FATAL TO EIGHT

An aerial photograph of the Golden State Limited piled up in an arroyo five miles from Tucuman, N. M., after a bridge weakened by a cloudburst, gave way as the crack train was crossing it. Eight persons were killed and 40 injured in the accident.

Says Roosevelt Has Made Veteran The Forgotten Man

Milwaukee, Aug. 31—(AP)—Senator Arthur R. Robinson, Republican, Indiana, in an address to the national encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars here Wednesday vigorously assailed President Roosevelt's economy and reforestation programs. Under the economy act the war veteran becomes the "forgotten man," of the nation, the Senator said.

"The so-called economy law is utterly indefensible and is the most cruel and unjust act ever passed by a cowardly Congress," Senator Robinson said.

Sublette Boy is Victim of Fatal Accident at Crossroads Yesterday

Gilbert Hahn, Aged 13 Fatally Crushed In Collision

A collision of two automobiles at the intersection of two cross roads one mile north and one mile east of Sublette yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock cost the life of 13-year-old Gilbert Hahn at the Ambrosy city hospital last evening at 10:30. She is today a patient at a Mendota hospital, where she is suffering from an injury to her back and minor cuts and bruises about the body.

Raymond Gehant, residing in Brooklyn township was driving east on the gravel road with his sister, Misses Marcella and Marie as passengers, and Gilbert Hahn riding on the running board on the driver's side and his elder brother LeRoy on the other running board. They were on their way home from the Leo Buller home, where all had been visiting.

As the Gehant car crossed the intersection of the two roads, a sedan driven by Elmer Embaum, who resides on a farm south of Shaw station, with Mrs. Embaum as the passenger, approached from the south and is said to have turned east in the same direction the Gehant car was headed in an effort to avoid a head-on crash, but Embaum was unable to prevent sideswiping the Gehant car, striking it near the rear wheel.

Victim Was Crushed
The front of the Embaum car crushed Gilbert Hahn's legs, breaking both limbs and rolling the victim of the collision from his position. The Gehant car was turned over on its side in a ditch and the Embaum machine turned over in the road. Embaum was said to have been thrown from his car, but he and his wife escaped with only minor cuts and bruises.

The Hahn boy received the worst injuries and with the others was rushed to the Angear hospital at Sublette. The hospital was unable to care for all of the victims and the Hahn boy was then transferred to the Ambrosy hospital, where it was found necessary to amputate the left leg between the ankle and knee. He suffered the loss of a large quantity of blood and died about four hours later.

Fear Internal Hurts
Miss Marcella Gehant was removed to the Mendota hospital, apparently suffering from internal injuries and was to undergo a thorough X-ray examination today. Miss Marie Gehant suffered only minor injuries as did her brother Raymond and LeRoy Hahn, brother of the victim.

Major Uses Teeth On Any Provocation—

Washington, Aug. 31—(AP)—Harry William Johnson is telling his friends to beware of White House dogs. He explains that while passing the mansion yesterday, he reached through the fence to pat Major, President Roosevelt's German shepherd.

Major bit seven stitches were taken in the lacerated fingers of Johnson's right hand.

Major is credited with snapping at Senator Hattie Caraway last April. Since then, however, an operation was believed to have cured his biting tendencies.

Johnson, an attorney, said he contemplated no legal action against the White House.

"Blonde Tigress" And One Of Her Companions Sentenced To 199 Years; Third To The Chair

Chicago, Aug. 31—(AP)—John Schack was sentenced by Judge Harry B. Miller today to die in the electric chair Oct. 13 for the murder of Policeman John Sevik in a courtroom.

The same date was selected recently for the execution of Morris Cohen, killer of another policeman in a Navy Pier holdup.

Chicago, Aug. 31—(AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Jarman, called the "blonde tigress" by police, was under a 199-year prison sentence today following her conviction of a charge of murder in connection with the death of Gustave Hoeh, 71-year-old owner of a haberdashery. Hoeh was recently shot to death in his store.

Mrs. Jarman's companions, George Dale and Leo Minnece were convicted at the same time. Dale, accused of being the actual slayer, was sentenced to death in the electric chair, while Minnece received a 199-year prison sentence when a jury in Criminal Court returned its verdict last night.

The 29-year-old divorcee, who is the mother of two children, took the stand during the trial and denied any connection with the shooting, asserting she was the innocent victim of her two co-defendants whom she accused of slaying the aged merchant without her knowledge.

Her conviction and that of her companions marked another victory in the city's drive on crime. In recent weeks the campaign has resulted in three death verdicts and 229 penitentiary sentences.

JOHNSON RIDES EAGLE; FORD AT WHEEL OF AUTO

Umpire Of Gigantic Contest Is President Of Nation

New York, Aug. 31—(AP)—The V-8 and the NRA, symbols of far more than a mere motorcar and a mere blue eagle, are engaged today in a race for principle on an untold speedway.

At the wheel of the car is Henry Ford. Riding the eagle is General Hugh S. Johnson. Behind the one is a lifetime of invention and industrialism raised to a science. Behind the other is high resolve, laudable purpose and the law.

The umpire is the President of the United States.

For Henry Ford who dedicated one of the world's monster industries to shorter hours and a minimum wage, the NRA fiat to sign up or face whatever music the administration should elect to play may quite conceivably be climactic in a strictly personal way, leaving entirely aside its economic aspects. He has, in a degree, dedicated his industrialism to the development of efficiency aimed at personal benefit to both his consumer public and his employees.

Pioneered High Wage

At a time when employer and employee in the motor as well as other major trades were in economic conflict, each seeking advantage according to his lights, Ford pioneered with the five dollar-a-day minimum wage, pioneered, that is, among the big employers. Failing by reason of his position into the class called "capital," he fought nonetheless to function independently of "capital," and often contrary to it.

The essence of the Ford industrial philosophy as evidenced in the Ford factories, assembly plants, ship lines, mines, forests, farms, laboratories and railroads is much the same as the essence of the NRA. As a consequence the country sees today two principles, identical in many ways, in conflict.

Ford, operating his business on a scale he contends is more liberal than blue eagle rules, says that to "sign up" wit' the NRA would mean to "sign down" to it.

SHOWDOWN IS NEAR

Washington, Aug. 31—(AP)—Hugh S. Johnson and his recovery administrators counted August employment gains under the blue eagle today and launched a new effort to open the doors of factories, mines and shops to an even greater number of idle in September.

Johnson returned last night from a speaking trip to Boston to find a request from President Roosevelt for a detailed report on the failure of Henry Ford to sign the automobile code approved last Sunday.

The Recovery Administrator declined to comment. He has said repeatedly he has had no word from the Detroit manufacturer. It appeared today that a showdown between the Administrator and Ford was near.

Ford has until September 5 to come in under the code and obtain his blue eagle. If he fails to do this, Johnson said, he thought the American people would "crack down on him when the blue eagle is on other cars."

Accept Others' Terms?

In one aspect it may be said that Ford believes that to sign the motor industry code would be to accept the terms of conditions, to be laid down by his competitors; for the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, numbering virtually the entire industry in its membership—excepting Henry Ford—approved the code and will administer it.

Henry Ford has lived his industrial career along these lines. He has never favored unionization of his employees, and his weapon against unionism has been to provide working conditions and wages which he felt met or even exceeded those which unions required. In a way, his stand has been much the same toward organized labor as it appears to be today toward the motor industry code; a standard fully up to the requirements, yet aloof from them.

Seeks Full Control

He has been an industrialist who sought as nearly as possible to control completely all the resources of raw material, production, distribution, delivery and labor, even to the point of widespread servicing of products after they reached the consumer. His basic program is not his alone now, but it blazed trail in the early days of motor car manufacture.

The determination of General Johnson not to permit the Ford Motor Company to be an exception to a national program for prosperity is predicted on the same ground as that taken by Ford on the other side; that is, that a definite, carefully prepared program shall not be hampered merely because one viewpoint opposes it.

Ford is a personality as well as an employer. For him to withhold his signature from an NRA code which his fellow motor car makers have accepted creates definite public interest. This public interest serves to magnify the issues involved. The action of the President in interesting himself personally is

THE scarlet trumpet flowers are gay
And yet they never seem to play.
They never trumpet up the dawn
Nor blow retreat across the lawn.

But oh, today I heard a strain,
A happy, martial, quick refrain,
As down across the garden grass
I saw the marching flowers pass.

Gaudy phlox and flaming rose,
Stiff and straight and on their toes,
And, blaring from the garden wall,
The trumpet flower led them all.

Tempting Summer Appetites

Are you puzzled these hot days about what to have for luncheon or dinner or tea? If you are, these easy-to-make recipes may appeal to you. They are specially planned to tempt summertime appetites without over-taxing the pocket-book.

Peanut and Potato Croquettes
These will make an excellent main dish for luncheon or supper. Either sweet or Irish potatoes can be used.

Two cups mashed potato, 1-2 cups finely chopped peanuts, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon white pepper, few drops tabasco sauce, corn or wheat flakes, 1-2 cups white sauce, 3 tablespoons chili sauce.

Combine mashed potato, peanuts and seasonings. Shape in small cylinders and roll in cereal flakes, being sure each cylinder is completely covered. Brush over with melted butter and brown in a hot oven. Add chili sauce to white sauce and serve in a separate dish with croquettes.

Chocolate Ice-Box Cake
This cake is not as rich as the cake made with butter and bitter chocolate, but it's very good for hot weather.

Four eggs, 1-2 pound sweet chocolate, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-4 teaspoon salt, one dozen lady fingers, 1-2 pint whipping cream. Melt chocolate over hot water. Beat yolks of eggs until thick and lemon colored and add to melted chocolate. Beat well. Add vanilla and fold in whites of eggs beaten.

Sawdust Trail Beckons 'Tex'

"TEX" GUINAN, queen of New York's night clubs, who says she wants to become an evangelist like Aimee McPherson Hutton so she can "save the souls of some of the fools I have made," is shown here as she arrived in Hollywood to begin work in a movie of Broadway life in which she will take a featured part. Upon returning to New York, "Tex" will appear in a stage play based on Mrs. Hutton's life and then, she says, hit the sawdust trail.

until stiff but not dry. Remove at once from heat. Separate lady fingers and place, flat side up, in a shallow mold lined with heavy wax paper. Cover with half the chocolate mixture. Place another layer of lady fingers on top and cover with remaining filling. Top with another layer of the lady fingers. Put into refrigerator for 12 hours or longer and serve with cream whipped until firm and lightly sweetened and flavored with vanilla.

Cheese Roll
One-half pound Philadelphia cream cheese, 4 tablespoons Roquefort cheese, 2 tablespoons finely minced olives, 1 tablespoon minced sweet green pepper, 1 minced canned pimiento, 1 tablespoon of minced parsley, 1-2 teaspoon paprika, 4 tablespoons butter, 1-2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1-2 cup chopped nut meats.
Mix all ingredients except nuts. Shape in a roll about two inches in diameter and roll in nuts. Chill for several hours and serve on a platter with a garnish of radish roses.

Awarding of Prizes Feature of Ladies' Day Country Club

Wednesday was Ladies' Day at the Dixon Country Club and as the pleasant summer days are drawing to a close this fact seemed to aid in enlarging the attendance of the fair sex. There were twenty present for luncheon.

Mrs. George Beier, in charge of the special sports committee, presented the ladies with prizes won during the summer. She addressed the players in an interesting and gracious manner and told of her pleasure in again working with them, as she held a similar position several years ago.

Mrs. Beier presented Mrs. L. A. Neis with the electric clock, presented by Mr. Berry of Amboy, congratulating her on being the champion of the Dixon woman golfers.

Then the president's trophy, presented by Cal Tyler, another electric clock, was presented to Miss Anne Hoffman.

The Coss Trophy, was won by Miss Helen Cahill, who has been general chairman of the sports committee this season. Because of a previous appointment Miss Cahill was unable to be present yesterday. Mrs. Beier spoke of the very efficient work Miss Cahill had done as chairman, and of her interest and courtesy to all players, which has been fully appreciated by all.

Then Mrs. Beier placed the July contest prizes. Mrs. Floyd Chapman won first prize, with Mrs. Willard Thompson as runner up. Mrs. Howard Edwards was winner of the consolation flight with Mrs. Dorothy Helmick as runner up.

Yesterday there was also a flag tournament. Mrs. F. X. Newcomer won the prize for nine holes and Mrs. A. A. Rowland was awarded the prize for eighteen holes.

Mrs. Beier again expressed her pleasure in being with the players as special sports chairman and urged the continuance of the interest in golf exhibited by the Country Club members.

Ill. League Sponsors Organized Consumer Cooperation in NRA

Organized consumer co-operation with activities under the National Recovery Act is being undertaken by the Illinois League of Women Voters.

For the U. S. Bureau of Labor statistics, the League has volunteered to have twenty-nine of its members make weekly reports of retail food prices to Dr. Isador Lubin, chief of the Bureau, sending in the blanks to Washington.

Chicago, Peoria and Springfield are the cities in Illinois selected for this check, and the following League members have accepted the responsibility of getting the information the government needs:

In Peoria, the work will be undertaken by Mrs. Glen McCluggage and Mrs. Joe L. Johnson; in Springfield by Mrs. George T. Palmer and Mrs. J. P. Baird; in the Chicago area by Mrs. Walter Anderson, Mrs. W. G. Bobeng, Mrs. M. J. Clay, Mrs. Mary Daniels, Mrs. J. B. Dax, Mrs. Irving Durfee, Mrs. Albert Hetzner, Mrs. Sidney L. W. C. T. U. Still Firm Against the Repeal of Eighteenth Amendment

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 31—(AP)—The Women's Christian Temperance Union has not retreated one step in its fight against repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the organization, said today in a statement.

"We are opposed to the repeal of the 18th amendment and will continue to oppose it every step of the way," her statement said. "We realize that when and if repeal comes, the liquor traffic will come in like a flood. We know that much of the money spent for liquor will be diverted from the necessities of life and that the homes will suffer therefrom."

She said her statement was issued in answer to a recent address in which she said Postmaster General Farley said that repeal was an important part of the national recovery act.

"The national W. C. T. U. displays the Blue Eagle at national headquarters, thus showing that we are doing our part and supporting the government in the matter of wages and hours of work," she said. However, she said the organization took exception to Postmaster General Farley's statement.

Lee Co. Federated Clubs Met Wednesday At Lowell Park

The Lee County Federated Clubs met yesterday at Lowell Park. There was a picnic dinner at noon, followed by an intensely interesting meeting. Mrs. Willard Thompson had charge of the singing.

H. C. Barton, former superintendent of schools in Pawpaw, spoke on "The Crisis in Education." He said in part that the schools were being challenged on three points: Are we devoting too much time to facts and figures? Are our schools costing too much? Is the world a better place to live in on account of our schools?

In a most convincing manner he distinguished between the passing fads, and the new studies which must become a part of our permanent curriculum. He advocated cutting out craft and waste, and saving essentials. A survey of humanity today with the same hundred years ago convinced his audience that the schools had performed an inestimable service in raising our standards.

Mrs. Forsyth Home From Trip Abroad

Mrs. Helene Forsyth who has been abroad for the past two months returned yesterday to her home in Dixon, accompanied by Norwich, Conn., by Miss Lillian Snyder formerly of Dixon, who has many friends here and who will visit Mrs. Richard Bovey and Mrs. Forsyth. Miss Snyder is now a guest at the R. C. Bovey home. On her return from New York after arriving from abroad Mrs. Forsyth stopped for a brief visit with Miss

Sunday they spent a delightful day with Mrs. Jay Jerome Williams, a sister of Miss Snyder at the attractive summer estate of Mrs. Williams near Washington, D. C. Mrs. Forsyth states that her trip, largely a cruise in Mediterranean waters, was the most enjoyable and that it far exceeded her expectations. Mrs. Forsyth at some future date will relate for Telegraph readers some of her interesting experiences.

Allen and Shaw At Polo Festival

Polo, Aug. 31—Final arrangements were completed here today for the tenth annual fall festival of the Polo Woman's club, opening here this afternoon and continuing through Friday evening.

A large platform, on which stage entertainment will be presented during the afternoon and evening programs both days, has been erected in front of the Polo State bank building and streets and store windows have been decorated all over the business section.

Parade at 1:30 P. M.
The festival will open at 1:30 P. M. today with a parade, the route for which will be from Scrymgeour's corner east on Main street to the Illinois Central railroad tracks. A concert by the Polo school band, and an address by Congressman Leo E. Allen, of Polo, will follow.

The school band made a second appearance at 4 P. M. when a three-quarter hour concert was given. Marimba phone selections by Mrs. E. D. Beck and a program by the Kesslering entertainers from Waukegan will wind up the afternoon festivities.

Violin solos by Miss Lola Mades, vocal selections by Noel Hawkins, Milledgeville baritone, another concert by the school band, and wrestling and boxing matches, in which members of the Preport Y. W. C. A. will participate, will be given to-night before the festival dance at the town hall.

Shaw Speaks Friday
An address by Supreme Court Judge Elwyn R. Shaw, of Preport, will headline Friday's program.

ENTERTAINED AT DINNER TUESDAY EVENING

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Conrad entertained the latter's sister, Mrs. Donald Swarts, daughter Joanne and son, Charles, of Lansing, Mich., at dinner at their cottage near Grand Detour Tuesday evening. Mrs. Ada Teeter, mother of the two ladies, was also a guest. Mrs. Swarts was formerly Miss Alfreda Weigle.

STUDENT NURSE AT ST. LUKE'S VISITS HOME IN DIXON

Miss Avis Richardson, student nurse at St. Luke's hospital, Chicago, is spending a month's vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Richardson. Miss Richardson was accompanied by Miss Kathleen White who visited a few days at the Richardson home. Miss Richardson spent a week visiting at Miss White's home in Davenport.

Orders Mrs. J. Walker To Southern France

Cannes, France, Aug. 31—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. James J. Walker left today to spend a month in Evian, a resort in southern France, where Mrs. Walker, the former Betty Compton, has been ordered by her doctor because of delicate health.

A close friend of the former New York mayor said the Walkers had expected a baby, but that hope was destroyed following a severe intestinal illness which she suffered recently.

Mrs. Walker, who often has expressed a desire to have children, has been despondent since the illness, the friend said, and failed to respond satisfactorily to treatment. The doctor consequently ordered the change.

Miss Maxine Hawkins Honored Wednes.

Miss Helen Hansen entertained a party for Miss Maxine Hawkins Wednesday evening at her home.

First Meeting By-ron Woman's Club

The first meeting of the season of Byron Woman's club will be held at the community house next Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Grace Price Oregon, will be guest speaker. The musical program includes two violin solos, "Chansonette," by Terrence and "To Spring," by Grieg, by Miss Eloise Welty, with Mrs. Laura Fischer of Oregon as accompanist. Mrs. Fischer will also play two piano solos. Mrs. Laura Cooper is chairman of the program committee. Mrs. Helen A. Spoor is president.

MISS CLEAVER AND RONALD REAGAN RETURN

Miss Margaret Cleaver and Ronald Reagan who have been spending part of their vacation at the home his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Reagan in Dixon, left yesterday. Miss Cleaver returned to her home in Eureka, Ill. Mr. Reagan accompanied her there and will then go on to Des Moines, Ia., where he is announcer for radio station WOC. He and Miss Cleaver and Mrs. J. E. Reagan, his mother, also enjoyed a visit to the Century of Progress during his stay in Dixon.

A NEW ERA DAWNS FOR THE WORKING MAN.

American labor can take a hitch in its pants and cock its hat over one ear when it celebrates Labor Day this year.

On every Labor Day that anyone can remember, the nation has handed the working man a lot of flowery tributes about the nobility of his toil, and has complimented him with sugary phrases for being the backbone of the republic.

This year, for the first time, the nation is beginning to act as if it meant all of those things.

In that fact there is signalized the opening of a great new vista for labor. It has its charter of freedom, at last; it has its most valiant friends in high places at Washington; it has a pretty definite assurance that it is not going to get marked cards from the bottom of the deck any longer.

And on this Labor Day, so significant with its promise of a new deal for the man who works for wages, it might be an extremely good thing if the men who own and direct the physical properties of the United States would sit down for a moment and meditate on the debt that they owe to labor.

Labor has played ball during the trying years of the depression. It has paid for those years in acute hardship—in hunger, in want, in loss of hope, in disappointment, in unwanted idleness. It has been tried as never before. It has seen the promises of former Labor Days turned into mockeries by economic collapse.

But it has kept the faith. It has not turned radical, it has not opened its brawny hands to destroy the system which let it down. It has simply tightened its belt and waited for a break in the luck.

Now the break has come. Labor can celebrate this holiday as never before. It rights are written into federal law—its rights to a job, its right to a living wage and a decently short working day, its rights to organize in its own way to protect its status. The federal government is pledged to see that those rights are respected.

With all of this, of course, goes a new responsibility. Labor has been given a new charter of rights; it is up to labor, now, to demonstrate that this charter will not be abused to prove that capital and consumer alike can get from labor the kind of co-operation that will be necessary if the last uphill pull to prosperity is to be completed.

That such co-operation will be given is easy to believe. A new day has dawned for the American working man. His past record makes one confident that he will neither abuse the privileges it brings him nor neglect the duties it entails.

NO ROWDYISM NEEDED.

There is something extremely ominous about that little story from St. Louis, telling how a mob seized a small-scale restaurant owner who had failed to sign the NRA agreement, beat him up and forced him to kiss the blue eagle emblem. Nor is the story made any more refreshing by the victim's assertion that the attack was inspired by his business competitors who wanted to force him to raise his prices for meals.

Only an alert and aggressive public opinion can make a success of the NRA campaign. That goes without saying. But a public opinion that boils over into acts of rowdism like this is worse than useless. There are other ways of reaching slackers. If our support of the campaign degenerates into lawless mob spirit, the blue eagle will be a curse and not a blessing.

Let us hope devoutly that this affair in St. Louis will be recorded as an isolated incident. We must not let it, even in a small measure, become typical of our effort to enforce the NRA program.

The diver eyed his gold a while and then he shouted, with a big smile, "At last, lads, I am rich again. Think of the fun in store."

"I'll furnish my small hut, all new, and I'll help other people, too. I will but the things I need and I won't worry any more."

"I suppose that you'll quit work today and calmly loaf your time away," said Scouty. "It would be foolish, though. You'd soon get tired of it."

"If you have nothing much to do, they say that age creeps up on you. It is better to be active. That is what keeps a person fit."

"Ah, you are right," the diver said. "Do not fret! I am going to use my head and keep on with my daily toil. I am not a loafing man."

"I will work, as I have worked before. Now, lads, I have a treat in store. I'll take you to my farm and let you eat all that you can."

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

DAVID'S AMAZING CAREER

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.

The career of David, both in its original progress and in the place that it occupies in religious history is most amazing and full of conflicting elements.

Religiously David has been given a place almost of sanctity and the association of the Psalms with his name, and the conception of him as a sweet singer, have suggested his place as a leader of praise rather than as a leader of armies and at one time the head of a group of discontented and rebellious men.

Yet this saintly young David who played on his harp and sang, was a man of blood and violence, and the record is that he was not permitted to build the temple which glorified his son, Solomon, because he had been engaged to much in bloody deeds.

It is characteristic of the Bible that with fine honesty it presents both aspects of this remarkable man.

We see him as the young shepherd boy, fearless and confident, going out with his sling and his smooth stones to smite the giant Goliath, swaggering in his armor and defying the armies of Israel. We see him in the modesty of his achievement and in all the attractiveness of his young manhood.

Then the picture changes and we see him as a man of strong passions swept away by the violence of temptation, seeking to cover up his sin, as lesser men have sought to cover up their sins by the virtual murder of the man whom he had wronged.

The story of his putting Uriah, the wronged husband, into the thick of the fight, displays David at his worst, for the murder was as real as if he had struck down Uriah with his own hand.

Yet here again we see David in the noblest side of his character, for when the prophet has brought home to him by an apt illustration the reality of his sin he does not turn in wrath upon the prophet, nor does he seek to extenuate his fault. He acknowledged his wrongdoing, and he seeks a way of repentance and restoration.

We must see David in both of these characters to know the man and his significance religiously is that being such a great sinner he was none the less a man of high aspiration whose character soared to things higher than his sins. It is well to remember the story of David in connection with the world's sins and the world's sinners, for the story is instructive in reminding us that a man's sins are not always the indication of what the man is and of what he is capable of becoming.

It was this that Jesus supremely recognized in his dealing with men and women. He refused to see them rather in terms of their lowest and basest acts. He saw them, rather in terms of their higher aspirations and of their repentance as conscience accused them of their weakness and wrongdoing. It is for this that David has had and ought to have, a high place of significance in the history of sin, righteousness and forgiveness.

The view that sees David chiefly as a saint is as wrong as the view that sees him chiefly as a bandit chief. We must study in him the conflict between right and wrong, of violent passions with the higher aspirations and the generous impulses that conquered in the end.

CHALLENGE OF CITY DUDES IS SOON ACCEPTED

Stars Of City League Teams To Meet The Champions

The challenge for the soft ball championship of Dixon, which was yesterday announced by Captain "Bud" Funk of the City Dudes at a team of all-stars to be selected from the other soft ball teams of the city, has been accepted. Play will begin Monday evening at 5:30 at the Independent field on Van Buren avenue and Eighth street. An admission fee will be charged and seven games played to decide the championship. Ten per cent of the gross receipts will be donated to the Dixon Community Kitchen.

Bob Graves was selected to manage the All-Stars who will attempt to capture the city championship title now held by the City Dudes. The officers of the league, who were requested to pick the all-star team, have announced the following players in the list of eligibles to oppose the Dudes:

Pitchers—Mickey Barefield, Lyle Fordham and Edgar Clark; catch-

Babe Ruth Admits He's Near Finish

New York, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The habit of writing fits to Babe Ruth's baseball career, a popular winter pastime for years, now has extended to the home run king himself.

"I guess I might as well hang up my spikes," he said mournfully last night. "I can't sign up as a player next year. The legs won't stand it. I might get by at first base, but not in the outfield. I am through."

While the boys have been guessing him into the management of either the White Sox or the Red Sox next season, Ruth knows nothing about it.

"That's up to several other people besides myself," he said. "I am still the property of the Yanks. If another club wanted me for manager, they would have to make some sort of a deal with Col. Ruppert. It's up to the owners of the other clubs. I haven't been approached, even unofficially, by anyone."

GIANTS INVADE BRAVES' FIELD FOR BIG STAND

Terry, With Pitchers Showing Wear, Has Work Cut Out

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Baseball's deep and abiding passion—a truly "crucial" series—stripped Boston and the National League today as Bill Terry's New York Giants ran their pennant chances into the gauntlet of the second place Braves.

The Giants brought a full six-game lead to the Braves field, normally a discouraging outlook for the home folks, but it's been many a long and stormy season since any Boston club could thrill the faithful with a threat even that close.

They play six games in four days, and therein lies Boston's stoutest hopes. Terry's amazing pitching staff has been worked overtime beating off the Cubs, Pirates and Cardinals for the past two weeks, with the seams spreading farther each day.

Braves Are Ready

Bill McKee's advantage, if there is any, lies in the fact that his strongest pitchers are "tossed and ready." He has Ben Cantwell, the league's leading hurler, for the single game today with Bud Parmelee, batted out of the box by the Cardinals Monday, his probable opposition. For two games tomorrow, the single game Saturday and the final pair Sunday, he can rotate Lefty Ed Brndt, the veteran Tom Zachary, Fred Frankhouse, Huck Betts and probably Cantwell again in the second game of the final doubleheader.

Only Carl Hubbell, the brilliant southpaw, and Freddie Fitzsimmons, the fat right hander, have maintained their top pitching form for Terry in the bruising series just closed with the Cards.

Show Signs of Wear

Setting the scene for the start of today's big battle, the Giants outbatted the Cards 5 to 4 yesterday with Hal Schumacher showing signs of wear and tear as he staggered home victorious in a duel with Dizzy Dean. Meanwhile the Braves, regaining their stride, knocked down the Reds 3 to 2 to even the series as Huck Betts turned in a neat five-hit performance.

St. Louis ran up a lead of 4 to 1 on Schumacher, who was beaten by the Cards Monday, before the Giants' long range guns got into action. Bill Terry hit a homer after Hughie Critz singled for the first hit off Dean in the fourth. Then Mel Ott singled and Lefty O'Doul smashed his 14th homer of the season into the right field stands.

Scored On Fluke

Dean and Schumacher went along to the ninth, mixing brilliance with wildness but always pulling out of the holes. Then in the final half of the bases filled, O'Doul roled to short, Frankie Frisch and Pepper Martin collided trying to field the ball, and the winning run was over. The Giants got 10 hits, the Cards seven. Schumacher walked six and fanned six and Dean did the same.

The impish figure of Walter J. Vincent Maranville, going on 42, stuck out all over the Braves conquest of the Reds to even the series. The waggish little man they call "Schoolboy" pumped a single over first to score Pinkey Whitney with the winning run in the ninth. Buck Jordan's triple and Wally Berger's single scored one in the first. Bill Urban's double, Jordan's single and Berger's long fly the second in the third inning. The Braves hit St. Johnson, usually their poison, safely eleven times.

The Reds bunched three hits in the sixth. Chick Hafey and Lombardi driving in one each.

Cubs Displaced

The Pittsburgh Pirates edged almost unbeknownst into third position, by a two point margin, taking the fourth straight from the Phillies 5 to 1, while the Cubs slipped to fourth splitting a double header with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Charlie Root edged Hollis Thurston to give the Cubs the first 2 to 1 but Rosy Ryan, in relief, held the Cubs in the second as a rookie shortstop, Linus Frey, drove in four runs in the Dodger victory 7 to 3.

Ralph Birkofer held the Phillies to four hits to win his second victory for the Pirates since being recalled from the International League.

No games were scheduled in the American League.

SOFT BALL GAME TO PRECEDE OAK RIDGE CONTEST

Double Header Is Arranged For Sunday At Ridge

Manager Russell Warner of the Oak Ridge baseball team is arranging a special bill for the entertainment of the Ridge fans Sunday afternoon in the form of a double header. The Beier Loaders will open the afternoon bill against the City Dudes, both soft ball teams from Dixon, playing a seven inning game. It will be the first soft ball game to be played on the Ridge field and will start promptly at 1:30.

The Rockford Cootie Cubs will furnish the opposition for the regular Oak Ridge team at 3 o'clock. The visitors have a reputation of being one of the strongest semi-pro teams in this section, and within the past few weeks defeated Forrester by a score of 14 to 0. They have a former Pacific Coast league twirler who will appear on the mound Sunday at the Ridge diamond.

The members of the Ridge crew who have been on the casualty list will be back at their respective places Sunday and will be working hard for their thirteenth victory of the season. The Riders will line up as follows:

Rink, lf; McDonald, ss; Kehrt, cf; L. Miller, 3b; C. Reilly, lb; Lebre, 2b; E. McGrath, rf; N. McGrath, c; J. Miller, p.

Ft. Dodge Swimmer Repeats Victory

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Winning Canada's annual 15-mile swim in Lake Ontario was setting to be a habit today with Marvin Nelson, brawny distance champion from Fort Dodge, Ia.

He won the event for the second time yesterday, becoming the first man in the history of the grind to repeat. And in the bargain he clipped more than 19 minutes from the course record by ploughing the distance in seven hours, 37 2-5 minutes.

It was not much of a test for the mid-westerner who won first in 1930 and placed fourth last year when George Bladen, Memphis lawyer, won in the record time of 1:19.52.

Nelson's victory enriched him by $5,000, the first prize. A half mile back in second place came Bill Goll of New York to win $1,500, with Frank Pritchard of Buffalo, winning third place and $700.

LOWER PRICES FOR FOOTBALL IN BIG SCHOOLS

Nearly Every College To Meet Competition With Cuts

BY ALLAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

New York, Aug. 31.—(AP)—College football, already well primed and fortified to crash the sports picture again, will meet keen competition this fall with the lowest scale of prices for spectators since pre-war days.

On top of sharp reductions made within the past year or two, in the attempt to check declining attendance for all but the most alluring gridiron attractions, nearly half the nation's colleges and universities will slice admission costs further this season.

A majority of the so-called "big league" colleges are among those lowering the scale, notably along the eastern front but also in the middle west, southwest and on the Pacific coast.

Reductions range from 10 to 50 per cent in the east, an average of about 20 per cent in the mid-west and from 10 to 40 per cent in the far west, according to figures compiled in a survey for the Associated Press.

Some Absorb Tax

Thirty out of 62 eastern colleges replying to a questionnaire indicated reductions in ticket prices. Twenty-nine others will stand pat on their 1932 scale, with a few absorbing the new government tax. Only two, the University of Maine and Geneva College of Beaver Falls, Pa., expressed sufficient confidence in an "upturn" to announce they will raise admission charges this year. One, Bethany College of West Virginia, will continue last year's policy of free admission to all home games.

Top prices vary with the attraction but the $4 game, plus tax, will be more of a rarity than ever. Only the Yale-Harvard game remains in this price class on the schedule for either the Blue or the Crimson, leaving it on the same level with the Army-Notre Dame classic in New York. "Tops" for such old standbys as Yale-Army, Princeton-Yale and Harvard-Army now are listed at $3 plus tax.

West's Big Game

Even the "big game" on the west coast, between Stanford and California is a $4 affair this year as compared with a previous top of $5.

Only Notre Dame of the big school group holds to the pre-depression prices, box seats for the Southern California game at South Bend going for $6.60 each with the best reserved seats at $4.40.

Prices for the most attractive games in the Mid-West, South, Southwest and Rocky Mountain conference groups range from $1.50 to $2.50 in most cases.

Although the University of Denver with the biggest stadium in the Rocky Mountain Conference, has abolished the 50-cent seat as a "non-paying" proposition, Stanford will try selling end-zone seats at only 25 cents for lesser games and the University of Kansas will offer the same price to school boys.

In addition to blanket reductions in single game or season ticket prices in the Southwest Conference, Pacific Coast Conference and Big Six Conference, colleges announcing 1933 reductions so far include the following:

South—North Carolina State, Rock Mountain—Utah and Denver.

New England—Boston College,

Trinity, Springfield, Northeastern, Yale and Harvard.

New York State—Colgate, Moehs, Army, Niagara, Fordham.

Pennsylvania—Allegheny, Bucknell, Moravian, Gettysburg, Grove City, Muhlenberg, Franklin & Marshall, Pittsburgh, Westminster, Ursinus, Temple, Washington & Jefferson, Lafayette, Carnegie, St. Vincent's and Lehigh.

Also Navy, Western Maryland and Rutgers.

EARNSHAW TOLD TO STAY AWAY FROM BALL PARK

Philadelphia, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Trouble comes doubly for George Earnshaw, one-time ace hurler of the Athletics, in his latest difficulty with Manager Connie Mack.

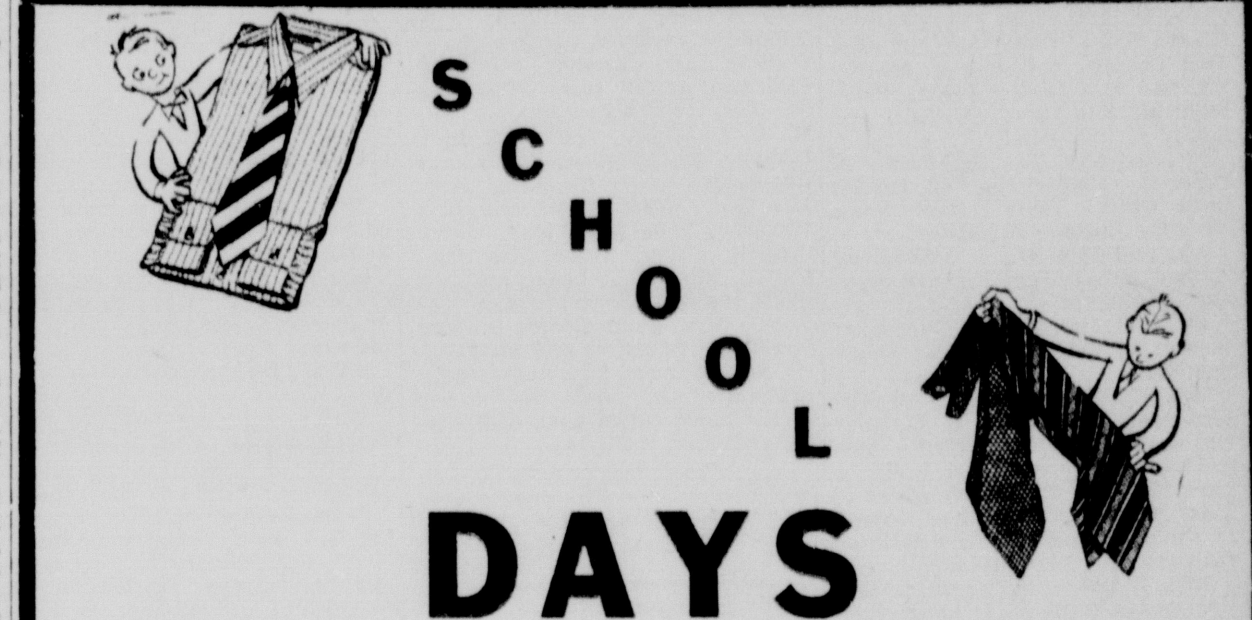

"Retired" from American League competition for the rest of the year, Earnshaw disclosed he also has been specifically requested to stay away from Shibe Park and his team mates.

In the suburban home where he found his only ray of sunshine in a crib containing 12-day-old Elizabeth Earnshaw, the right hander declared last night that Mack's letter from St. Louis notifying him of his "retirement" came "like a bolt out of the blue."

"He wrote that he wouldn't need me for the rest of the season," Earnshaw said. "He asked me to take my stuff out of the clubhouse and wrote that he'd appreciate it if I'd stay away from the ball park."

"I haven't any fault to find with Mr. Mack. I don't know why he doesn't want me to pitch, but I guess he has his reasons," Earnshaw said.

Earnshaw will continue to draw his pay until the end of the season. This country has about 135 doctors for every 100,000 persons.

DAIRIES CAN'T FILL BOTTLES OF OTHER FIRM

State Inspector In- forms Local Milk Dealers Of Law

The State Dairy Food Inspector was in Dixon Monday, and while inspecting one of the local dairies stated that all dairies using bottles not their property must discontinue this practice within 30 days, because at the expiration of that period the state authorities intended prosecuting offenders.

Apparently it will be necessary for all dairies to return bottles not their property to the owners. It has been reported that the inspector remarked that he intended to call a meeting of all Dixon dairy owners in the near future to lay this matter before them. It is a well known fact that ignorance of the law does not excuse anyone and violators apparently will be prosecuted by state officials whether they have been notified or not.

This report came through a local business man who has the interest of the local people at heart and while The Telegraph does not vouch for its authenticity, it believes its informant has stated a fact which the public should know.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — When the democrats came into control of the senate at the beginning of the present congress, the choice of Plummer within the power of that body to bestow to an outsider fell to a man who had served the party long and faithfully.

Col. Edwin A. Halsey, who began his career as a page on the democratic side of the aisle and who was for many years secretary to the party when it was in the minority, moved from his desk on the senate floor to the large suite of offices across the corridor and became secretary of the United States senate.

But despite the colonel's new surroundings, his title and all, he can't forget the days when he was in the thick of things on the floor and in the councils of the party on the outside.

Leg Work Counted—
In the old days, often it depended on how fast the colonel's legs flew as to whether the democrats in the senate suffered defeat or won a victory on various pieces of legislation. It was one of his duties to see that they were all on deck at voting time.

It's not necessary for him to do things like that these days. "Legging it" has been turned over to a young man especially trained for the job by the colonel.

But old habits are not easily forgotten—especially in so far as the colonel is concerned. He may have been assigned to the tail-coated, handsome suite with red plush curtains and ferns, but the old urge to be where the battle is the thickest is still there.

When the senate is in session, he may be seen almost any day on the floor conferring with senators on the democratic side. When he was secretary to the democrats, he held on to an old job that he had before as the party's pair clerk. During the recent special session, many suspected that his presence on the floor at crucial moments was to make sure that all of the democratic senators' votes were properly safeguarded.

Work in the Vineyard—
The colonel had another job, too, before his elevation from which he finds it difficult to tear himself.

For years, and under successive chairmen, he has been secretary of the democratic senatorial elections committee—the senate body that tries not only to keep democrats in their seats but also putting new ones where republicans sit.

The senatorial elections of 1934 are the greatest political events next on the calendar. There are 16 democrats who must face the electorate next year. There are 17 republican seats to be targets for democratic guns.

The colonel is already at work. The office of secretary of the senate is administered by the colonel in impartial fashion. But, apart from that, there are many opportunities for him to labor in the democratic political vineyard.

"OTHER WOMAN" IS IDENTIFIED IN LAMSON TRIAL

San Jose, Calif., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Having presented testimony suggesting the existence of "another woman" in the life of David A.

Lamson, the state called upon scientific witnesses today for the last phase of its attempt to convict the young Stanford University Press representative of murdering his attractive wife, Allison.

From Dr. Frederick Prosser, county pathologist, the state expected testimony that a 10-inch length of iron pipe and bits of sharred cloth taken from a bonfire which Lamson was attending in the yard of his Stanford campus home the morning of the tragedy contained evidences of blood. The prosecution contends Lamson beat his wife to death with the pipe because of domestic troubles.

Mrs. Sara Kelley, Sacramento divorcee whom state's witnesses mentioned as Lamson's companion on his many visits to Sacramento, was one of the witnesses remaining to be called by the state. From Carmel, Mrs. Kelley communicated with newspapers, denying her relations with Lamson had been anything more than a matter of friendship and business.

Through numerous witnesses the state late yesterday got testimony that Lamson had made many visits to Sacramento from December 25 to May 18, and was seen in the company of Mrs. Kelley, then an employee of a newspaper.

WOMEN CANVASS CITY TO SPREAD NRA DOCTRINES

Volunteers Seek To Enroll Every Dixon Home In NRA

While three big committees of women under the general direction of Mrs. Florence Plummer White are this week canvassing every home in Dixon and community, seeking to enroll each householder under the blue eagle banner and secure pledges to cooperate with business houses displaying the insignia of membership in the NRA, additional certificates of compliance with the program are being filed with Postmaster John E. Moyer, head of the local organization, and bringing the roll of local employers near the 100 per cent mark.

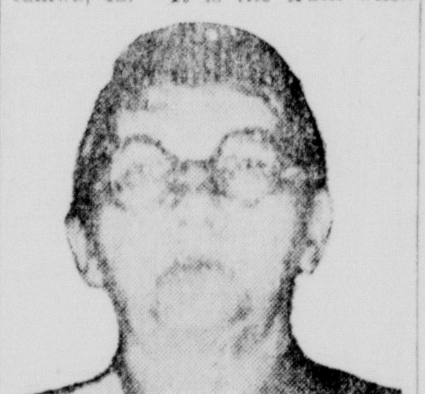

The following enrollments, filed this week, bring the total of Dixon employers who have agreed to comply with the NRA program to 312: Harry G. Otto, oils, 1104 Long Ave.; R. N. Eastman, Maples restaurant, R. P. D. 5; F. Leydig, 1914 Third St.; Anna B. Taylor, beauty shop; Dixon National Bank Bldg.; Joseph Lonergan, watchmaker, 10 Galena Ave.; Commodore Hotel, 215 First St.; Illinois Northern Utilities Co.; Reynolds Wire Co.; Clark Van Matre, oils, R. F. D. 1; Blackhawk Produce Co.; J. W. Oswald, plumbing and heating, 342 Everett St.; H. D. Bills, real estate and insurance agency, 112 Galena Ave.; W. E. Bunnell, auto and commercial car body work, 117 N. Galena Ave.; Walter E. Fallstrom, florist, 110 E. First St.

Canvass Is Thorough "We are making a thorough job of it," said Mrs. White in command of the local sector of the Blue Eagle battle front. "By the end of the week we hope to have our canvassers call at every home in Dixon and immediate vicinity. The object of this house to house canvass, which includes also all places of employment in the city, is to see that every employer in on the dotted line for the Blue Eagle and that every family in Dixon signs the consumer's agreement with the President and displays the insignia. These canvassers also are checking on compliance with the President's agreement and reporting violations to our local headquarters. "Many questions are being asked of

MRS. EMMA CAMPBELL

I say I have not had a single attack of rheumatism since I began taking Gly-Cas. For three years I had been miserable, so crippled I could hardly walk across the room, arms, legs and feet ached and pain continually. But now all that has left me, get around with ease. My kidneys and stomach trouble has been corrected by this new remedy, too, never bothered with night risings any more and able to eat what I want without that awful gas and bloating afterwards. It feels so good to be so well again—thanks to this new Gly-Cas.

these house to house visitors. Of course, they have no authority to rule on interpretations or render decisions in technical situations but they are able to give out a lot of information of an educational nature.

"The Blue Eagle campaign, as I have said, is something new, and therefore there is some misunderstanding about it or rather there was but in the last few days people in general have come to understand it much better. At least that has been my personal observation. Literally tons of educational material has been sent out from Washington to local committees in addition to which the newspapers have done splendid work as also have the radio stations and the motion picture theaters.

"It really has been inspiring to see the way the whole country has fallen into line, and the fact that there was not an entirely clear general understanding of the whole plan until quite recently has really been all the more impressive for it has shown that the people have complete faith in the leadership of the country and that the feeling is widespread that the thing for everybody to do regardless of circumstances is fall in line and march under the banner of Uncle Sam.

"There is one outstanding point about this war—that's really what it is—and this point is that we are out to put people on the pay rolls. We simply cannot go in to another winter with twelve million men on the bread lines. This NRA campaign will cause some inconvenience and added expense to business, and, through higher prices to the consumer. But these are the sacrifices that will have to be made in order that the man out of a job can get back to work. And while sacrifices will be necessary just as there always are in any war, it won't be for so very long. Just bear in mind that if the Blue Eagle puts five or six million men and women to work in the next 30 days or so, it will mean that the purchasing power of twenty million or more people has been restored. That certainly will give business a mighty boost—so much so that everyone will profit by it in one way or another."

Mrs. White explained that Dixon has been divided into districts and that each canvasser is expected to call on all the places of business in his or her territory. Reports are made to NRA headquarters each evening and just as rapidly as possible actual jobs will be found for the unemployed. The canvassers bring in lists of those who are out of work with a statement of the qualifications of each unemployed person so that expanding industry will be able quickly to absorb the labor surplus.

"There is one special word I would like to give to the people of Dixon," said Mrs. White. "I want to emphasize the fact that all these workers are volunteers and are donating their services to a great cause because they love their country and want to help those who are out of work and have been for so long. In many cases these workers are making great personal sacrifices in order to help us in the war on unemployment. When they come to your home or your place of business they are entitled to the same consideration you would give to a soldier in uniform. They are working for the good of the entire people. It is a fine and splendid thing they are doing—a real display of patriotism. It is easy to wave the flag, you know, and shout for Uncle Sam, but these loyal men and women are proving their devotion to their country by doing this job—which means a sacrifice of time, energy, and in many cases, money too. So, I am sure, they will be accorded all the courtesy and cooperation to which they are entitled."

WEDDED SUITOR OF SCREEN STAR "FAST WORKER"

Claire Windsor Tells Of Speed Read Acquired In Wooing

Los Angeles, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Claire Windsor, blonde actress, says she allowed her acquaintance with handsome Alfred S. Read to blossom into a love affair because she believed the broker's statement that he was unmarried.

The assertion was made in testimony in the alienation of affections trial in which Mrs. Marian Read, former wife of the Oakland, Calif., business man, seeks $100,000 from Miss Windsor. The actress had only begun her story when court adjourned yesterday. Extra bailiffs were ordered to the courtroom to control the crowds as she continues her testimony.

Miss Windsor testified her romance with Read progressed on a transcontinental train as it rolled through the farm lands of Kansas and as she and Read sat on the observation platform during "a gorgeous moonlight night."

Bridge—Then Kiss The actress said she was walking on a desert railroad station when formidably a stop when Read introduced himself and asked if she would play bridge. She was willing.

Read, Miss Windsor intimated, was a fast worker. The next night—"a gorgeous moonlight night" where in Kansas—"he kissed her as they stood on the observation car platform.

"I pushed him away the first time," she said.

"But you were not resentful after the first kiss?" the plaintiff's counsel asked.

"No," the actress replied. "They were very affectionate kisses."

"Yes,"

Admits Marriage Miss Windsor said Read suggested during the second night, that the train was somewhere in Illinois, that they get married. At that time, she testified, Read admitted to be a married man, and had misled her when he first induced her to think he was single.

She said, Read declared he was separated from his wife and was planning a divorce.

Miss Windsor said she allowed herself to be pursued by Read in the belief his statements were true. After a brief stay in New York during which Read took her around the city, the young broker left for the west coast with the understanding he would get a divorce, the actress said.

At the parting, Miss Windsor said, Read cried.

INTERNATIONAL AIR RACES ON DECK TOMORROW

Speed Demons Arriving In Chicago For Big Competition

Chicago, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Speed demons of the air and their viatic racing crafts were in Chicago today prepared to put on some sample exhibitions of fast and fancy flying during the qualifying trials for the international air races.

The races officially open tomorrow afternoon with the scheduled arrival of 18 Army planes from Selfridge field, Mich., and today has been set aside for qualifying flights.

Put through its paces yesterday was the M. & A. Special, the plane that Leland S. Miles and Leo A. Atwood of Los Angeles built in 35 days and brought here by truck.

Since the national races Miles and Atwood said they have made important changes in its construction and claim for it now a speed of more than 200 miles an hour.

Another California plane, the Bubble Bee, to be flown by George O. Hague, a Los Angeles business man who didn't get around to learning to fly until he was 35 years old, also is on the scene and ready to compete for the Frank Phillips $10,000 cash prize Labor Day.

Record Plane Arrives With Lee Gehlbach, veteran Detroit racing pilot, at the controls, the plane that Capt. James G. Hailz used in establishing the existing west-east transcontinental record of 10 hours and 19 minutes roared into town yesterday and has been entered in every event for which it is eligible. Besides Gehlbach, Mrs. May Hailz, wife of the Captain, will pilot it.

Other speed ships quartered here in preparation for the races include Ben O. Howard's Ike, an hour at Los Angeles. Col. Roscoe Turner's Ring Free, which fled from the east to the west coast in 11 hours and 30 minutes for a record, and the Gee Bee, owned by Arthur D. Knapp of Jackson, Mich.

Meanwhile, arrival of the Menasco-six powered Wedell-Williams, a new plane of which much is expected by its builders, was expected today—on a truck from Patterson, La.

From Illinois cities have come Art Chester's little center-wing monoplane and a six cylinder Menasco. Keith-Ryder recently bought from a San Francisco syndicate by R. A. Kling of Lanark, Chester's plane arrived from Joliet yesterday.

NIGHT SWEATS

Certain symptoms for reasons hard to explain catch the fancy of the average man and strongly impress themselves on his mind. Thus, for example, the relation of night sweats to tuberculosis is very widely appreciated.

This appreciation, however, is not always to the good. For when an individual does not experience night sweats, he may draw the hasty and erroneous conclusion that he does not suffer from tuberculosis.

Or again, because he does suffer night sweats, he may fear, with no other warrant, that he does have tuberculosis. Few diseases have a uniquely characteristic symptom which, if present, definitely establishes the existence of the disease and, when absent, rules it out.

Night sweat is not such a symptom. It may point to the possible existence of tuberculosis. Tuberculosis, however, may exist without night sweats. Furthermore, night sweats may be caused by a multitude of other conditions.

The mechanism of the night sweat is not clearly understood. It is undoubtedly associated with a certain amount of disturbance in the temperature-regulating mechanism of the body.

Perspiration and fever are intimately related. That the sweats occur at night is probably due to the effect of accumulated fatigue and fatigue products.

Night sweats may be caused by any infection, localized or general. They are also associated with hyperfunction or over-activity in the thyroid gland. Night sweats may also exist without any organic disease condition. Persons of an unstable nervous temperament may suffer night sweats in the same manner as their hands may be clammy during the day.

When one finds himself sweating profusely at night, it is desirable to submit to a careful examination.

PLUCKY AND LUCKY

In a new life of George Eliot we learn why she did not marry Herbert Spencer. It was not her fault, for she loved him dearly and wanted to marry him. They had much in common, and he played around with her for years, so everybody thought they were going to marry.

One day Spencer took a shilling and flipped it: heads he would marry, tails he would not. It came down tails, and that ended it. Spencer was not to say brutally. Of course it hurt George Eliot deeply, she had such love of longing and such longing for love; and she suffered.

After months of heart-break, she wrote to a friend, "I am very well and plucky," a word which I propose to substitute for "happy," as more truthful. She was lucky, too, if she had known it. Spencer was a cold, abstracted, and as irritable as a porcupine. She might have suffered in another way, had they married. Besides, he was ill much of the time.

It was a lucky escape in fact. Spencer was a wooden personality, and some of us think his philosophy wooden, too. Anyway, she was well rid of a man who had no more feeling than to decide such a question by the flip of a coin. If not utterly selfish he was defective, emotionally. As it turned out he never married, and someone else was lucky too.

Lucky we are when we learn that Plucky can take the place of Happy if only because it is truer to the facts of life. Often it is all we have left, but it never fails us if it is real. Happiness is a fickle goddess and coy of her favors. When we seek her she is not there—least of all when we try hard to find her, so shy is she and shy.

Not many adults are happy much of the time, but all of us can have luck, even if we have little luck. Luck is fickle too. She gives one man fame and another fortune, often for no reason at all. But luck is a steady and reliable friend upon whom we can depend, if we trust it.

An old saying has it that it is "better to be born lucky than rich."

Hollywood Sky-Scorchers at World's Fair Air Races

Captained by Frank L. Clarke, veteran of twelve years of motion-picture stunt flying, the Phillips Sixty-Six trio, or the Hollywood Sky-Scorchers, will perform daily at the International Air Races in Chicago over the week-end. Photo shows the leader of the triad, his plane belching smoke and flame, as he goes through one of the maneuvers for which the team is noted. The other members of the sky-writing trio are, Paul Mantz, whose barrel-rolling through an open hangar during the filming of a Hollywood production caused the injured "Jimmie" Doolittle to shake his head and walk away, and Howard Batt, who flew a trimotored transport head on into a telegraph pole for another picture.

Inset: Clarke and Frank Phillips, millionaire Bartlesville (Okla.) oil man, aviation enthusiast and sponsor of the trio.

Perhaps, but better still is it to be born plucky. Rights may melt away, and luck may turn traitor, but pluck will stick by us!

A BOOK A DAY

WHERE DEMOCRACY REACHES ITS PEAK

By Bruce Catton

In "The Farm" Louis Bromfield laments the passing of the old middle west—the middle west that blossomed before the Civil War, a land of independent farmers where no one was very rich and no one was very poor and all men admitted their mutual equality.

Mr. Bromfield's novel describes that period by tracing the history of an Ohio farm from 1815 to the present day. It is a loose, rambling sort of story. It lacks a plot, in the ordinary sense of the word. But it does present a unified picture, and it is a well-written, interesting and moving story.

The old middle west, says Mr. Bromfield, came about as close to exemplifying the Jeffersonian ideal of democracy as any society that ever existed. It was, perhaps, as good a place to live as the earth ever saw. And it is gone, now, forever.

The rise of industrialism is the villain in Mr. Bromfield's piece, America, he says, was corrupted by the love of riches. It lost sight of the pioneer virtues to become grasping and mercenary. It ruined its farmer class and put in its place a sordid commercialism, that had neither ideals nor integrity.

Mr. Bromfield has made the old Ohio more idyllic, possibly, than was actually the case. Since he needed to put highlight in his picture, he was justified. My own objection to his book is that it is so good that it ought to be just a little bit better.

America is still moving. The aftermath of the pioneer era is about to resolve itself into something new. We have a right, I think, to expect a first-class novelist to seize the change and to interpret it. Has Mr. Bromfield crippled himself by exiling himself from the Ohio which is not what it used to be, and settling in Europe?
